NYC 9/11 Public Portal Document

DAILY NEWS, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 2001

Pain and pride of memories

As IDs trickle in, life stories of lost loved ones inspire kin

By BILL HUTCHINSON
DAILY NEWS STAFF WRITER

As thousands still wait for word on relatives lost in the World Trade Center rubble, many families have started mourning those already identified among the dead.

The city medical examiner's office has notified about 115 families that their loved one died in Tuesday's twin towers attack.

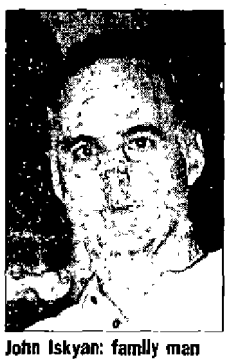
Among the victims was Pamela Boyce, 42, of Brooklyn, an assistant vice president for accounting at Carr Futures on the 92nd floor of 1 World Trade Center.

"There wasn't anything she wouldn't do for anyone in need," said Catherine Anello, 41, Boyce's companion of six years.

"She did not fear dying because she knew she was going to a better place," Anello said. "In fact, I'm sure she's more comfortable now than she was when she was here."

Anello said Boyce had a mind for business, but she was also blessed with the ability to dance.

"She was the best dancer that you ever could see," Anello said. "She was a spitfire. No party was complete without her."



John Iskyan: family man

John Iskyan, 41, of Wilton, Conn., went to work for Cantor Fitzgerald as soon as he graduated from St. Michaels College in Winooski, Vt., in 1982. In 19 years at the firm he had reached the level of partner, said his brother-in-law Bob Keeling.

"He was serious about his work and very serious about being a very good family man," said Keeling.

Iskyan is survived by his wife, Margaret, a 12-year-old son and a 9-year-old daughter.

Michael Pascuma, 50, talked to his son, Michael Jr., 20, at about 10 a.m. Tuesday to say he was trying to make it out of 1 World Trade Center. He was never heard from again.

Pascuma, of Massapequa Park, L.I., a floor broker at the American Stock Exchange, was at Windows on the World for a breakfast meeting with clients when the terrorists struck.

"He was the most loving, kind, generous person you could ever imagine," said Michael Jr., one of three children left behind to help their mother, Linda, cope with her grief.

"He always had a smile on his face. He loved life."

Robert Parks Jr., 47, of Holmdel, N.J., could tell you anything about baseball — from who led the American League in strikeouts for the past 10 years to which National Leaguer stole the most bases in 1956.

"He was just a huge baseball fan, a big sports trivia guy," said his brother, Dave Parks, 44.

Robert Parks, a bond broker for Cantor Fitzgerald in 1 World Trade Center, leaves a wife, Maureen, a 16-year-old son and a 14-year-old daughter.

"He was always full of energy," said Dave Parks. "When he woke up, he was always ready to go. He enjoyed his job, loved his family. He was just a great guy."

The wife and two children of Port Authority Police Officer Dominick Pezzulo, 36, of the Bronx can take solace in knowing he died a hero.

Pezzulo had already saved the lives of two New York police officers when he rushed back into one of the towers, dying there while trying to rescue more.

"He gave his heart and life to the job," said Ralph Balsamo, of the Balsamo Funeral Home in the Bronx. "He is a fallen hero."

John Keohane, 41, of Jersey City, N.J., was on a cell phone talking to his mother in San Francisco when he was crushed by debris falling from the north tower.

Keohane worked at Zurich Global Energy in One Liberty Plaza, across the street from the twin towers. His longtime partner, Michael Lyons, said they found each other in the chaos right before Keohane died.

"I was holding his hand, and then that big ball of whatever came down the street, like you saw on the news, and then it was dark, and he was gone," Lyons said.

"He was a very kind, compassionate person — a bright guy," Lyons said.

Jack D'Ambrosi, 45, was one of most active citizens of Woodcliff Lake, N.J. He was a member of the Parks and Recreation Commission, coordinated the men's softball league and coached his daughters' soccer and basketball teams.

He even organized the annual picnic for his church.

"He loved fishing, loved baseball, he was an avid Mets and Jets fan," said D'Ambrosi's sister, Denise Bonoli.

D'Ambrosi worked in the online bond trading department of Cantor Fitzgerald. He is survived by his wife of 18 years, Karen, and two daughters, ages 10 and 12.

"If you knew him, you'd love him," Bonoli said. "He made that impression on everyone all the time."

THE TOLL

Death toll and number of people officially reported missing from the terrorist attack at the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and the plane crash near Pittsburgh, as of yesterday.

CONFIRMED DEAD: 421

FDNY:	18
Port Authority Police:	2
Emergency Medical Technicians:	2
New Jersey firefighter:	1
Sandler, O'Neill & Partners	2
Others at WTC:	128
At the Pentagon:	2

American Airlines Flight 11, Boston to L.A., crashed into 1 WTC:
11 crew, 81 passengers
Total: 92

United Airlines Flight 175, Boston to L.A., crashed into 2 WTC: 8 crew, 57 passengers
Total: 65

American Airlines Flight 77, Washington to L.A., crashed into the Pentagon:
6 crew, 58 passengers
Total: 64

United Airlines Flight 93, Newark to San Francisco, crashed near Pittsburgh:
6 crew, 39 passengers
Total: 45

OFFICIALLY REPORTED MISSING, PRESUMED DEAD: 5,221

At the Pentagon: 124 At the World Trade Center: 5,097

Partial list of companies or agencies with missing employees at twin towers:

Company/ Agency	Building/Floor(s)	Reported Missing
FDNY		337
NYPD		23
Port Authority Police		35
FBI		1
Secret Service		1
Windows on the World	1WTC 106	90
People at breakfast meeting at Windows on the World	106	114
Cantor Fitzgerald	1 WTC 101-105	626
Marsh & McClennan	1 WTC 93-100	400
Fred Alger Mgmt.	1 WTC 93	36
Carr Futures	1 WTC 92	69
Metropolitan Life Insurance	1 WTC 89	2
Julien J. Studley Inc.	1 WTC 86	2
State Dept. of Transportation	1 WTC 82	3
Nikko Securities	1 WTC 79	6
Other Port Authority employees	1 WTC 61-74	39
Sidley Austin Brown & Wood	1 WTC 54, 56-59	1
Lehman Brothers	1 WTC 38-40	1
Rohde & Liesenfeld	1 WTC 32	2
Empire Blue Cross Blue Shield	1 WTC 17-31	9
Bank of America	1 WTC 9-11, 81	6
Pitney Bowes	1 WTC 4	4
LG Insurance	1 WTC 84	1

Company/ Agency	Building/Floor(s)	Reported Missing
International Office Centers	1 WTC 79	10
Sandler, O'Neill & Partners	2 WTC 104	65
AON	2 WTC 92, 98-105	200
Fiduciary Trust	2 WTC 90, 94-97	90
Regus Business Ctrs.	2 WTC 93	5
State Dept. of Taxation & Finance	2 WTC 86-87	40
Keefe, Bruyette & Woods	2 WTC 88-89	67
Harris Beach & Wilcox	2 WTC 85	5
Public Employees Federation	2 WTC 82-87	120
Fuji Bank	2 WTC 79-82	19
First Commercial Bank	2 WTC 78	2
Morgan Stanley	2 WTC 43-46, 59-74	15
Alliance Consulting	2 WTC 18	6
EuroBrokers	2 WTC 12	60
Verizon	2 WTC LL9-12	6
American Building Maintenance	1&2 WTC NA*	12
Summit Security	1&2 WTC NA*	40
Australian nationals		90
Bangladeshi nationals		50
British nationals		100
Japanese nationals		100
Korean nationals		12
Mexican nationals		12

*Not Available Compiled by Thomas Zambito

CITY_21MC100_011829442

NYC-WTC_000412178