An interfaith prayer service for those touched by the World Trade Center attack will be held at Yankee Stadium on Sunday afternoon and simulcast at two minor league ballparks, Mayor Giuliani said yesterday.

Edward Cardinal Egan will lead the service called "A Prayer for America" with Imam Pasha of Harlem's Malcolm Shabazz Mosque and other religious leaders. It begins at 2:30 p.m., rain or shine.

"We hope people will pray with us," said Giuliani, who will attend with Gov. Pataki.

The service will be broadcast at *KeySpan Park in Coney Is*land, and Richmond County Bank Ballpark in Staten Island. It also may be aired at Riverfront Stadium in Newark, though organizers still were working out details.

Tickets — free but required for entry — will be available starting today. First priority will go to families of victims and rescue workers, organizers said.

Keeping safe

To help keep the event secure, bags, backpacks, umbrellas and bottles will be banned, organizers said.

Tickets must be picked up by noon Saturday and are available at the following locations:

In Manhattan: 13th Police Precinct, 230 E. 21st St.; 24th Police Precinct, 151 W. 100th St.; and the Family Assistance Center at Pier 94.

In the Bronx: 48th Police Precinct, 450 Cross Bronx Expressway.

In Brooklyn: 67th Police Precinct, 2820 Snyder Ave.; 90th Police Precinct, 211 Union Ave.

In Queens: 107th Police Precinct, 71-01 Parsons Boulevard, Fresh Meadows; 112th Police Precinct, 68-40 Austin St., Forest Hills.

In Staten Island: 122nd Police Precinct, 2320 Hylan Blvd.

Outside of the city, tickets may be obtained by calling the Nassua County Police, (516) 573-7540; Westchester County Police, (914) 741-4358, Suffolk County Police, (631) 852-6381; New Jersey State Police, (866) NJCRISIS; and Connecticut State Police, (860) 524-5212.
