NYC 9/11 Public Portal Document

NEW YORK POST, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 2001

Hizzoner runs in air-athon

By KIRSTEN DANIS

Mayor Giuliani tore up the skies over the weekend to catch his beloved Yankees in the World Series — zipping between Arizona and New York twice in two days.

The frequent-flier mayor hopped his first flight to the land of retirees and adobe on Saturday afternoon. He sat with Sen. John McCain as the Diamondbacks routed the Yankees, 15-2.

After the game, the mayor caught a 12:30 a.m. flight back to New York yesterday.

Giuliani caught a quick nap and huddled with advisers in a morning meeting to discuss the detection of anthrax at City Hall.

By 9:30 a.m., the mayor was in Staten Island, sounding a cannon to signal the start of the New York City Marathon.

A few hours later, Giuliani was back at the airport to catch another flight to Phoenix for the final Yankees-Diamondbacks matchup.

CITY_21MC100_011832465

NYC-WTC_000414514