So, OSHA never gave the NYCDOH copies of thier actual sample reports? I have a call in to OSHA but it'd be easier to get if we already have it.

As for our internal doc? What's in it that it's not a public document or why isn't it?

OSHA and others collected thousands of air samples from the worker breathing zone at Ground Zero from Oct 2001 through May 2002. Summary results can be found at www.osha.gov. We also have an internal report summarizing earlier worker air sampling performed by us (DOHMH), but its not a public doc ?
would need to get some clearance before it could be released, but let me know if you would like to see it. It is described in the following public document:
http://www.cdc.gov/mmwr/preview/mmwrhtml/mm5121a1.htm

Let me know if you need further info.
