Lee - I was just visiting the EPA website and going through the informational material they've got up. It is a little nerve racking. Particularly the section re: dust in apts. Their instructions ask residents to determine whether there apt. contains "more than a minimal amount of dust." If it does they suggest a professional asbestos cleaner, if not then use the DEP guidelines (which they do provide). If I'm a resident this is not helpful, but rather makes me more paranoid. It simply adds to my already existing concerns about their P.R. and communications skills. Just a quick FYI.
