NYC 9/11 Public Portal Document

NEW YORK POST, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 2001

Skating season

DONALD Trump is back in charge of the Wollman Rink in Central Park — as well he should be. After the city dithered for six years, wasting millions of dollars on bad designs and shoddy construction, Trump volunteered to rebuild the rink in 1986. He finished the job on time and under budget. Under other management, the rink fell into disrepair. But Trump will spend $4 million on improvement under a new 10-year contract he'll celebrate tomorrow with a ribbon-cutting by Mayor Giuliani and Dorothy Hamill. Now, if Donald will just finish the Second Avenue subway ... that's the only way the line will ever get built.

CITY_21MC100_011833716

NYC-WTC_000415501